Learning to Fly: A Festival of the Arts and Sciences

KICK-OFF EVENT

A Concert to Kick off the Learning to Fly Series

The UWMC music department and Lecture and Fine Art Series presents

A Fall Preview Concert

From “Fly Me to the Moon” to Rimsky Korsakov’s “Flight of the Bumblebee,” the University of Wisconsin-Marathon County music department will present a wide array of songs that is sure to take listeners on a musical flight during a special performance on Thursday, Oct. 17, 7 p.m., at the UW Center for Civic Engagement Theater. The university’s Concert Choir, Vocal Jazz Ensemble and Jazz Central Voices, led by director Timothy Buchholz, will be performing along with the school’s Jazz Ensemble, directed by Jeff Erickson, and the Concert Band, under the direction of Chad Premeau. The free concert will kick off UWMC’s month-long Lecture & Fine Arts Learning to Fly series, highlighting the relationship between the sciences and the arts.

Back from the Brink: Reintroduction of Migratory Whooping Cranes in North America

Joan Garland is the Education Outreach Coordinator at the International Crane Foundation in Baraboo, Wis. She has worked at ICF for 13 years and is one of the Chairs of the Whooping Crane Eastern Partnership, the team of non-profit and government agencies reintroducing the whooping crane to eastern North America. The elegant whooping crane is on the verge of an extraordinary comeback after nearly becoming extinct due to human activities. A reintroduction project is currently underway to restore a migratory flock of whooping cranes to eastern North America. Now in its twelfth year, the project is being undertaken by the Whooping Crane Eastern Partnership, a team of non-profit and governmental agencies, whose founding members include the International Crane Foundation (ICF). ICF works worldwide to conserve cranes and the wetland and grassland ecosystems on which they depend. Terrace Room at 1 pm, UWMC Auditorium at 7 pm.

Learning to Fly: A Festival of the Arts and Sciences

The UWMC Theatre presents
One Act Flights of Fancy

UWMC theatre students will perform one-act improvisational preview performances answering the question: what challenges do young people face as they move from childhood to adulthood and undertake commitments to higher education? Based on the theme of “Flight: Leaving the Nest,” this event will be held in the UWMC Student Union from 11:30 am-1 pm on Wednesday, October 23. These previews will be presented as completed acts in the UWMC Blackbox Theater in the spring.
